

UCLA Center for Engineering Economics, Learning, and Networks

Join Us for Our Kick- Off Meeting:

October 12, 2011– 9:00-4:00pm- Shannon Room, Engineering IV

The UCLA Center for Engineering Economics, Learning, and Networks will develop a new wave of ideas, technologies, networks, and systems that change the ways in which people (and devices) interact, communicate, collaborate, learn, teach, and discover. The Center brings together an interdisciplinary group of researchers from diverse disciplines -- including computer science, electrical engineering, economics, and mathematics -- with diverse interests spanning microeconomics, machine learning, multi-agent systems, artificial intelligence, optimization, and physical and social networks, all sharing a common passion: developing rigorous theoretical foundations to shape the design of future generations of networks and systems for interaction.

Participating Faculty Members :

Prof. Simon Board– Economics
Prof. Adnan Darwiche– Computer Science
Prof. Moritz Meyer-ter-Ven– Economics
Prof. Ichiro Obara– Economics
Prof. Ali H. Sayed– Electrical Engineering
Prof. Paolo Tabuada– Electrical Engineering
Prof. Mihaela Van Der Schaar—Center Director– Electrical Engineering
Prof. Jenn Wortman Vaughan– Computer Science
Prof. William Zame– Economics
