

Hello! My name is Aiden Pu, and I am studying Electrical Engineering at UCLA. I've lived in San Diego, California, my whole life. I graduated from Del Norte High School, and I have one older brother. Some of my hobbies are soccer, tennis, going to the beach, and exploring nature.

I chose ECE UCLA because it is close to home and because it has a good reputation. Growing up, I was always interested in math, physics, and building stuff. I think studying electrical engineering will be a good way to combine all of my interests, and I believe ECE UCLA will provide me with the best education for this goal.

In terms of career goals, I currently hope to work in either tech or in astronomy and telescopes. I am not completely sure about these goals yet, but I plan to find something interesting while I'm here and pursue it.
